SPRINT UPDATES

SPRINT 7 UPDATE

This last sprint, we worked on making huge UI changes! We got a lot of feedback that players weren't totally aware of their abilities as well as general health or objectives. We added a UI very reminiscent of one of our inspirations, Diablo. This UI is now cleaner and sits at the bottom of the players screen. Incorporated are reload timers, so the player knows how long he has before he's out of bullets or when he can use them again. We have also been preparing for our big event: Game Developer's Conference! We are super excited to demo our game to people in the industry and get their feedback. The experience will be very eye opening as we get hardened gaming industry veterans to try our game and let us know what we can do to make our game even better!

SPRINT 6 UPDATE

The focus of this sprint was to make our game longer! To those that have constantly played tested our game were burned out on playing the same two levels over and over again. So we decided to go forward with creating our new "world" the new world forces our hero to scale a wintery mountain and face the Wendigo. We have three enemies for this world: an ice imp with an ice bolt weapon, a wolf that can howl and summon more wolves, and the wendigo, which is a large beast that can attack the player with many ice elements.
